

In accordance with the order of the Minister of Science and Higher Education of Russia Valery Falkov, it is recommended that all Russian universities organize student training using distance learning technologies.

Chuvash State University has been switching to this form of the educational process since March 17. The class schedule does not change, only the training format changes. Teachers will be able to transfer teaching materials to students through the mood system, via e-mail, post them on social networks, on YouTube channels, individual consultations are also possible. It is important to note that this is not quarantine or additional holidays; the university is temporarily switching to the distance form of the educational process. Explanations on the use of available means of organizing distance work of teachers and students will be posted additionally. Nonresident students in connection with the transition to distance learning are not recommended to leave home.

All public events scheduled to be held at ChuvSU will temporarily take place without spectators. This applies to open lectures, conferences, competitions, excursions, spring schools, university Saturdays, open days, continuing education courses and others. Disinfection of educational buildings and dormitories will be carried out on schedule.

Students and university staff should cancel all overseas trips and business trips until further notice.

In case of poor health, students living in hostels should limit contact with their neighbors and report their condition to the hostel's commandant.
