

On April 6, 2020, at the Department of Propaedeutics of Internal Diseases with a course of radiation diagnostics, the section “Propaedeutics of Internal Diseases with Radiation Diagnostic Questions in English” as part of the 54th Russian Students Conference “Science Week 2020”, was held. Section Chair: candidate of Medical Sciences, Svetlana Yuryevna Sapozhnikova.

Members of the jury: assistant Alla Gennadyevna Ksenofontova, assistant Tatyana Nikolaevna Aleshina. Secretary: assistant Lidia Nikolaevna Vasilieva.

Students were offered 9 reports of research papers on the propaedeutics of internal diseases and radiation diagnosis of internal organs. Some of the scientific reports were previously published on our website.

After studying all the reports presented, the chair and members of the jury noted the relevance of scientific research and identified the winners among them (protocol attached):

1st place was awarded to a student of the M-11-17 group of the Academy of Sciences, Ahmed Yara Osama Araf Ali, with a report: “Heart valves disorders”. Scientific adviser - candidate of medical sciences, S.Yu. Sapozhnikova

2nd place was awarded to the student M-13-17 AN Mohamed Abdelaziz Metvalli Elsayed with a report: "Robots in modern medicine" Scientific adviser - assistant L.N. Vasilyeva

3rd place was awarded to the student of the group M-11-17 AN Tavdrus Antonuos Safvat Frances with the report "Sleep Disorders". - Scientific adviser - assistant A.G. Ksenofontova

Thank you all so much for participating!

We wish you continued success in your research activities!